There was a time when the wholesome teachings of our mothers had an influence, when the home influence was felt after the fledglings had left the nest, and there are still some that are considered by many as "old-fashioned" who believe as our revered parents did, says the Washington Herald. Granting that a woman has the same rights as a man, that they can do the same things as man, can smoke, take a cocktail, ride a horse astride, and such things that were once considered as purely in man's province, yet the doing of these things have a tendency to bring the good woman down to the level of the company she is in, to make the telling of a risqué story in mixed company a common matter. We discuss eugenics with our children; they are allowed to read almost any novel they can get their hands on, and are allowed liberties former generations were strangers to. A return to the "old-fashioned" ideas of our mothers, to the time when the conventionalities were observed, might be looked upon as a step backward by the fast set of today, but to the thinking man or woman who still believes in the sanctity of the home and home life it would help to establish a purity that is sadly lacking in many families in this the twentieth century.

Earl D. Bloom, of Bowling Green, according to the opinion of Gen. Isaac R. Sherwood, is qualified to act as an assistant attorney general under the Wilson administration. Gen. Sherwood has started a campaign for Bloom's appointment and is lining up all his Democratic friends in the house. Mr. Bloom is a capable attorney, has been the political Moses, who has led the Democracy out of the Wood County wilderness and brought them into the land of milk and honey, and we know of no man in the party who is more thoroughly entitled to eat of fruit that has been so long forbidden to Democrats than our political antagonist and personal friend, Earl D. Bloom. Here's hoping, Earl. May the official lightning hit your dome, good and hard.

It would seem to us that the celebration of the Perry Centennial should be extended to Perryburg and suggest that a "Venetian Night" be one of the features, which could be made a delightfully charming event in which hundreds of yachts and motor boats might participate making it one of the most gorgeous river carnivals known in this country. It might be accomplished if Toledo would give her consent and assistance.

President-elect Wilson is one of the most reticent men ever chosen president of the United States. When reporters try to get some news out of him about his cabinet his mouth and tongue seem to be held fast by a pad lock.

It has, however, leaked out from sources close to Mr. Wilson that it is very likely that A. Mitchell Palmer, of Pennsylvania, will be attorney general, A. S. Burleson of Texas, will be secretary of agriculture, and Josephus Daniels of North Carolina, will be postmaster general. These names were obtained from what are considered by newspapers as "inspired sources" and while they are not affirmed or denied by Mr. Wilson himself they are no doubt the names he has in mind at the present time.

Family Secrets.

A girl has plenty of time to decide on the details of her wedding before the man has figured out whether her eyes are blue or gray.

Being conservative in politics never keeps a man from being screamingly insurgent in the matter of ties and socks.

A really clever woman never makes the mistake of assuming that only a man can comprehend her cleverness.

You may cure the vices of a bad woman, conquer the shortcomings of the indifferent woman, but nothing will avail in the face of a good woman's prejudices.

The woman who "dares to be different" is talked about, the man who plays the game is merely tolerantly laughed at—but at best the woman wouldn't change places with him—Lippincott's.

THAT THANKLESS JOB

SOMETHING THAT SEEMS TO BE ALWAYS WITH US.

Evidence of Its Presence to Be Noted Wherever You May Look—Some Comfort in Remembering Words of Ruskin.

One of the most constant and distressing quantities in everyday life is the thankless job. It is firmly fixed in the established order of things that while we often rebel, we continue to accept. It seems immutably placed, and is illustrated in every circle of friendship or business.

The mother who sacrifices, oh, so much, for her children and is immediately relegated to second place, if not utterly neglected, when Tom, Dick or Mayme decides to marry; the daughter or son who after years of faithful, tender service in the home, is accused of ingratitude when opportunities for a life of wider effort present themselves and are accepted; the generous hearted sister, who, having refused to listen to her own love story and having kept house for years for brother Bill and brother Bill's brood of motherless bairns, is told nonchalantly one morning that he, Bill, is to be married and "the boss of that particular ranch" hereafter will be the new wife; the white haired clerk who is either discharged or placed in a position that is an insult to his years of service, not to mention his intellect—these are but a few examples of the little thanks that loyalty commands.

Here's what Ruskin says on this subject:

"Generally, good, useful work, whether of the hand or head, is either ill-paid, or not paid at all. I don't say it should be so, but it always is so. People, as a rule, only pay for being amused or being cheated, not for being served. Five thousand a year to your talker, and a shilling a day to your fighter, digger, and thinker, is the rule. None of the best headwork in art, literature or science is ever paid for. How much do you think Homer got for his Iliad or Dante for his Paradise? Only bitter bread and salt, and going up and down other people's stairs. In science, the man who discovered the telescope and first saw heaven was paid with a dungeon; the man who invented the microscope and first saw earth died of starvation, driven from his home; it is indeed very clear that God means all thoroughly good work and talk to be done for nothing. Bafuch, the scribe, did not get a penny a line for writing Jeremiah's second roll for him, I fancy; and St. Stephen did not get bishop's pay for that long sermon of his to the Pharisees; nothing but stones."

True, work earnestly and loyally performed brings to a degree its own reward. The sweetness of doing something for either one's very own or the people out in the great, busy world is real and heart-warming but, even so, it doesn't satisfy any kind of man or woman outside of the ultra-saintly and excessively humble who, by the way, are few and far between. Men and women of everyday life need a tangible evidence of gratitude.

STONY RIDGE NEWS.

Jan. 21, 1913.

Revival services have been in progress at the Methodist church of this place during the past few weeks under the direction of Rev. McNeely. On last Friday evening a crowd of the Personal Workers from the Clark street M. E. Church came out and assisted in the meeting.

George Nollenberger of Curtis was an over Sunday visitor of relatives at this place.

Frank Snyder, who has been employed in Cincinnati during the past few months has returned home.

John Warns and family residing near Walbridge will move into the home recently vacated by Geo. Snyder, in the near future.

Mrs. William Swartz south of here is on the sick list.

Robert Smith residing near Luckey who underwent an operation for appendicitis at Toledo recently is reported to be rapidly on the way to recovery.

Linemen have been very busy in this vicinity repairing the damaged telephone lines caused by the recent storm.

At a congregational meeting of the members of the Lutheran church on Monday, Fred Swartz was elected Elder, and Chas. Zingg, Frank Swartz and Louis Sherman were elected Trustees.

And Let's Settle the Light Problem

She: "We want the most healthful light."
He: "Yes and of course that's electric light."
She: "And we want the most beautiful light—"
He: "That's electric light too."
She: "And the safest light."
He: "Electric light is the only safe light."
She: "And the most convenient light—"
He: "Well the most convenient things I know are the telephone, telegraph, street cars, push buttons—and they are all electric."
She: "And we want the light that will be the most economical—"
He: "Yes—in the long run that, surely, is electric light."
She: "In other words—we want Edison Mazda Lamps."
